CAUTION: T52 is shown incorrectly on many Forest Service maps.

NOTE: Although T52 is open to horses and pack animals, there are fallen trees across the lower portion of the trail.

DESCRIPTION: From its upper end, signed T52 descends sharply for about 0.2 miles (>25% gradient) to s switchback to the left, marked by cairns, At the upper end of the meadow, it makes a switchback to the right and descends toward the canon bottom. From this point the trail (mostly cattle trails) descends along the canyon bottom, sometimes on the east side and sometimes on the west side. Gaylord Spring – with its watering trough made from a log – is reached at mile 0.6. The trail continues along the canyon bottom – again sometimes on the east side and sometimes on the west side – to its signed junction with T54.

If one is hiking up T52 there are two extra instructions:

- (1) About thirty yards up canyon from Gaylord Spring, scramble up the hillside to the left to reach the (cattle) trail.
- (2) The last steep-- portion of T52 is easy to follow once you find it. Follow the canyon bottom until the drainage ends at a meadow. Follow a nice single path thread to the end of the meadow and look for a switchback to the left and the trail that ascends from the drainage to the ridge.

ACCESS: T52 may be accessed from T51 or T54.

To reach the upper T52 trailhead, hike approximately 2.2 miles up T51 to the signed T52 trailhead.

See the write up for T54 for instructions to reach the signed lower trailhead of T54. The lower T52 trailhead is approximately 1.1 miles up Tortolita Canyon from the point where T54, descending from the 900 foot high ridge, joins the old road in the bottom of Tortolita Canyon..
